NIJT London 2013 stats: 9.4mpg, 5 ppg, 1rpg. 1 apg, FG3/7 – 37% 3P 0/1-0% FT 4/4– 100%

Recap: 1 on 1 player with successful finishing ability. He is perfect insider with a high jump. His 1 hand is always a bit higher than any other fighting for the balls above the rim. Can use behind his back ball move running the court. Could show more talent if had doubled game time. Has great potential

Ranking: NCAA Division I low major or Division 2.

NIJT London 2013 stats: 28 mpg,9 ppg, 4 rpg. 2 apg, FG11/19 – 57% 3P 0/3-0% FT 5/9–55%

Recap: Lefty, insider. Frame is good but needs more strength. Drive first, shoot second. Nonstop runner both ways, gets back quickly. Average shooter. Has some special way of rebounding – predicting and running towards the basket jumping up following the ball. It looks like he takes the ball on the run every time just passing by the rim area. Unselfish. Fast crossover –his big advantage tool.

Ranking: NCAA Division I mid to low major.

Stats:

Recap: Only African player in the JBC. He's played all his life. Potential to become Power Forward, has longs arms, good timing jump and coordination. He must work his strength and quickness
Good moves in low post but still slow, dominate both hands. Able to score using hooks and drop shots. On defense his length changes many offensive shots, fantastic blocker. Rebounds over the rim.
In All-Star Game, Gracin lost concentration during the game, he had 5 fouls in 22 minutes (10 points, 7 reb. 3 blocks). His body reminds us of Serge Ibaka (the same city), follow his evolution.

Recap: Player with good size and wingspan especially for Small Forward. Has great agility and explosiveness. Uses his vertical jump for strongly penetrating and finalizing with dunk. One of the best shooter in JBC. Left-hander with a technical shot very soft and pure. Lovro's jumper is very difficult to defend, finalizes many times with floater shot. High percentage in shot after staggered screens. He can improve his quick shooting performance and shots in Pick and roll/pop situations.

Can play small guard or small forward. Player with highest offensive talent in JBC, despite his height is very quick and explosive in 1 on 1 situation, always beats his defender. He has a lot of alternatives to generate advantages, makes defender extend stance. Good Reading offensive tactical situations (Decision making in screens, draw and kicks options,)

In/Out Positions, he can post up. Good fakes and pivots in low post. He takes advantage of small player in positions near the basket. Decent defender. He isn't especially fine in 1 on 1 defense, must progress his lateral footwork. Very active in help position. Lovro has defensive initiative with peers is very aggressive and communicates. Very long arms for steals, rebounds on both sides of the court and blocks shots. Probably the player with highest projection in Europe, both for technical capacity and excellent physicality to play small forward. His attitude is very good with concentration and intensity. He has played 5 matches with Cibona Zagreb 1st team.

Recap: Steady, tireless PG, with European frame. Runs the court from rim to rim. His arsenal is full of quick passes, fast crossover and magic spacing skills. His passes are so sharp that are hardly noticed. His fingers are very strong. Moreover he is a born shooter with a long range, can make series of successful shots from the arc in comparatively short period of time. His moves are sharp and elegant. Confident in contact basketball with big guys. His legs make his defensive task much easier.

Recap: Athletic body, big frame. Looks pretty good inside and within the paint where he spends most of his time on the floor. He has perfect spin moves, nice steps towards the rim and ability to hide or carry the ball out of opponents' hands. His shot is not set perfectly and he is in two minds if he will play low post or take part on the wing. His wide span and effective hands are his advantages but he has to work on his lateral moves, help actions and ball handling. He should add more elements (probably shot and dribbling) to his game; he has time as he is 1997. One of the most promising forwards and it will depend much on his coach and the team he will be playing next 2-3 years.

Recap: Athletic ad very big with long wingspan. He can be called "an above the rim rebound player" and he picks up most of the balls that are up there. He has excellent vertical leap and second hop ability. Really fights for every ball. He plays with pivot in offense but lacks needed steps and technique. He already has much international experience. He made too many misses and his hands are not soft enough. His finishing stage of the shots is floppy and careless. He has balance with hands up and feet working in Defense. Dribbling should be developed. He can bounce pass to small guys, but it is more like an exception. He can't get the tactics yet or the things that he is up to on court first of all. Has problem with hands and ball catching. Still looks promising for a big rotation guy on the next level.

Andrea scores a lot of variety shoots near the basket with both hands (hook shot, layup, dunk, floater shoot,…). Decent outside shooter. He doesn't take advantage of his body in defense; his problems come with quick players. Good rebounder. Good body to play off guard, he is very explosive and agile. Recap: Athletic, tall and strong. Attacks mostly from the paint, doesn't use his mid shot at all, but he probably could. He shoots without jumping which looks silly. He can play effective pick and roll situations diving inside. His hands are of high quality; his low post game is drilled. But he is not so fast and his actions are limited. Defensively he can help a bit, block shots, passes and take any loose ball on the basket. He will have to work much on his shot, tactics and all the things concerning decision making. Probably he should run and support fast breaks more.

Recap: Athletic for his height, talented PG with excellent court vision and speedy ball dribbling. Fake body moves space him for any further actions. His decision making could be better, but he will probably improve with experience. Fast break creator. Possesses solid 1st step start move. Voice commands and orchestrating skills- +++. His shot has problem in finishing stage with the last moment wrist move. 4.3 TO is too much for 21 minutes and his defensive abilities are the strong part of his game. He does a great job on rebounds fighting on offensive boards and grabbing some good D balls. He looked a bit heavy this time but his passes especially to low post were impressive and contributive. His court vision is perfect, but his right hand is weak. If he chooses to attack himself it is better to drive inside rather than shoot. His creativeness should be supported by speed and tireless shape which he recently lacks. His shot should be stabilized.

Stats:

Recap: He is an excellent right-hander shooter, probably was best in JBC. He takes mid-range jump shot of the dribble with high percentages. Stefan is a great 3 point shooter when he receives the ball to penetrate and pitch or staggered screens; very quick release. He did 3/3 three points shooting in All-Star JBC. He has problems with lost balls because he takes bad offense decisions. Player with a good strength and size but he need to be more explosive. Intensity in his defense 1 on 1. Good lateral footwork. He plays on Red Star's U16, U18 and 2nd team.

Recap: His body isn't particularly good. Must exercise his strength, agility and quickness. Is the aspect that should work to be a great player? Great outside shooting. He can shoot after dribble long-range (20 feet).Dominates fakes with ball (Jab step and crossover, pump fake,). He scores many shoots in Pick and roll situations. Solid free throw shooter. Can play Point Guard or Small Guard. Talented offensively. Decision making and reading the court skills, always has his head up and maintains full court vision at all times. Optimal tempo for both offense, defense, and in transition.

Master all of the dribbling moves. He uses both hands. Top player at the highest level must progress in his change of pace with ball. The best assists in JBA. Stefan has a lot of creativity in the court (Taking decisions, score. Assists,). Stefan isn't a good defender. He must work to progress his defense. Bad lateral footwork. Tactically is very clever, he steals many balls. He needs more effort and willingness. He is a leader his character is very competitive (Teodosic) but there are moments with bad attitude(negative gestures, protests to the referees,). Should be less selfish and think more about the team.

A very excellent, creative passer. He gets his rebounds around free throw line which is his job. He can take the initiative in the crucial moment and deliver. A winner.

Recap: Tough intense, aggressive athlete. Pretty agile, always finding the zigzag way to the hoop. Runner with "Snake style". Hardworking. Can score with fouls. Not a good shooter, for his attacks uses driving and passing rather than shooting from outside. Not greedy and can dish out a wise assist. His best thing is drive and finish. Average defensive player. Rebounding is also average. Could be of more value if he had the ball more and had a better shot. Starting SG playing 20-25 mpg.

Recap: Developed his dribbling skills, became more confident with the ball and acts perfect under pressure. Good footwork and deep game understanding. Good inside passes. He pushes himself to stay face to face with the opponent on defense. He is wise with pauses and tireless on court, ready to compensate for every mistake made (though there were not many). He is the main PG in younger age team, playing more minutes. He is back to Lithuania from USA for the better basketball level. He tried high school basketball in the USA and didn't like it. He loves the game and does want to improve his level, gain confidence and become a pro player. He is potential for any USA low-mid major college as he aware of that level.

Recap: Lefty. Scorer in his team(the best scorer in the 1st day), but the shooting technique looks too individual. Extra fast spin moves. He produces the impression of a bit heavy guy. Must work on his skills but first fundamentals are there. Can score as second/third option, plays good defense and works at both boards. Helps in ball distribution. Doesn't shine but he's a complete player. Has another junior year to develop. We'll monitor him.

Recap: Long guy, not athletic. Likes to go inside if there is a little chance or even some narrow way to the hoop. The first step is fast. He has polished one step lay up. His most dangerous weapon is his long range shot. He shoots 3 from any distance with solid percentage. He should develop his jump shot and mid range attacks. He has chances on the next level if he improves his defensive skills. And his shot is very good option for his height.

Recap: Athletic body, attacking type forward. Runs the floor consistently. Shoot much but his release point should be polished as the finishing stage of his shot is jerky. Uses semi hooks which are nice and off the glass attempt which are also of his arsenal. Feels comfortable under the rim, good pivot moves, different fakes and solid vertical leap. He has 2.3 Steals per game, love to intercept the ball and runaway with the dunk. Knows the right moment to add tipping the ball. Not the best defender and lacks power in arms and legs.

Recap: Not very athletic forward with one of the best jump shots among all at the event. His has the whole collection of jump shots, with sharp stop, quick release and long range. He uses jump shot from the arc and it looks like a 3 point shot for him as simple as a FT. He jumps very high on his shots. Despite this tremendous skill he shares the ball enough to involve his teammates. It's easy for him to pass as every opponent coach gives the task to concentrate on him or even double team. Has solid frame but will need more strength. He's quite versatile and will likely become a very complete player. He easily made it top 5 of the event because of his shooting ability.

Recap: Made the top 5 players of the event. Long athletic agile forward/center. Can dribble full court, sits low and shares the ball. Before the ball touches his hands he is ready with his move and it's always a surprise for defenders. Has full collection of passes, including long pass and complicated bounce passes and no look passes. Passes inside to all his partners who penetrate. Moves to the hoop both sides, changes direction on the second step. His shot is not perfect but he can shoot anytime he wants. He knows all the combinations inside out, he is often with the ball as the partners know his strong offensive game. He is a smart defender as he knows exactly when and where he should move in zone defense. He directs covering beforehand and really has eyes on his back. When in the paint he is always concentrated and ready to receive the ball. He pivots on any side and scores being surrounded by defenders. He can dribble a bit when a situation requires that from him. He has talent for choosing right position in the paint both in defence and offence. He knows his screening duty and variants after. Recap: Tall, big wingspan, should add in athleticism and speed in moves. Hardworking, knows his position and responsibilities. Does exactly what he is asked and what he can do effectively for his team. Has a feel for high loose balls or the right moment for a rebound. Dribbling is poor, shooting is below average, 50% FT. He is taught to play in the paint and tries to fulfill that, quickly stepping all the directions inside. Knows the moment he should cover, good boxing out. He is a rebound player, can add a ball and score with fouls. Tolerant in D playing waiting for the moment to win over in a situation not violating rules. Croatia – KK Borik Puntamika Zadar

NJIT London 2010 stats: 33mpg, 16'5ppg, 7'5rpg, 2spg, 15/33 – 45% 3P 9/20 – 45% FT 9/10 – 90%

Recap: High-level intensity player, very tough and energetic. Solid and all around scorer, outstanding rebounder and tough defender from SG/SF position. He's everywhere, doing everything. Terrific competitiveness. Athletic and strong enough to play American basketball. Available now but must act quick as he is considering signing professionally if he doesn't get an offer.

Ranking: Division I mid major. Needs to get through NCAA clearinghouse. Will likely have 3 eligible years starting in the fall.

DENNIS SASSE

NIJT Belgrade'11 stats: 19mpg, 4ppg, 1'8rpg. FG 6/12 – 50% 3P 2/19 – 11% FT 1/5 – 40%

Recap: Belgrade tournament wasn't his best weekend, definitely. He played SF but should be a SG. Average/decent athlete who looks for the open spot, particularly the corners, to shoot the long range jumper. Technique looks decent but he missed a lot of shots, some of them by far. Worked well at the defensive end guarding two different positions. Nothing impressive about his ball handling and dribbling.

Recap: He has shown an interesting evolution, going from a pure all around scorer to a director who can create for his teammates and run the offense. Still has the offensive ability we saw in the past but played as second option in Eurobasket 2011, where he wasn't very accurate. Better organizational and passing skills. Intense defender who works pass lanes and put a lot of pressure on his rival. Still eligible?

Recap: Good director. Runs the team pretty well, showing good court vision and solid passing abilities. Good first quick pass to ignite the offensive transition. Can drive to the basket but lacks high level athleticism. Must add some outside shot. Valuable player to organize the team and distribute the ball. Currently at SPIRE Institute (OH) for training.

Recap: Provided help to Radicevic bringing the ball up and distributing from the point. Played SG position but looked like able to take some PG responsibility. A bit short to play SG, has good size to move to the PG spot. Moved well without the ball, scoring from those moves. Not a good shooter, with slow mechanics, struggled from outside. Decent ball handling, average dribbling abilities. Smarter than skilled, has some fundamentals to work but has chances to get to the next level.

Ranking: NCAA Division I low to mid major.

Recap: The other main guard in Beovuk alongside Socanac. He's not a pure director either but managed to bring the ball up and ignite some actions, especially from his dribble and feeding the post. Skinny and small, athleticism will be an issue. Struggled from the free throw line but netted some pretty good threes and long range shots despite a not great looking technique. Has options in his local league but not much upside further than that based on what we saw in Belgrade. We need to check his status for next 2012 season.

Ranking: NCAA Division II.

Recap: Quick and athletic PG who should fit well in college basketball. He's fast and likes to run the floor and outrun the defender. He's working on his skills and fundamentals. Better director in transition than in half court situations. Can penetrate and find the open man. Dish the ball well. Could be a secondary player in several NCAA teams. Deep rotation role in u18 Eurobasket 2011.

Recap:. He was effective in the paint scoring from second chances or cutting to the basket. We didn't see him playing with his back to the basket comfortably, though. Good positioning and intensity. Nice rebounder despite being a bit Has length and some agility to balance the lack of size. Must work on his low post moves and add some mid/long range game.

Recap: From Estonia to Spanish side CAI Zaragoza junior team to the States. Played in Spanish lower division. He can add a solid contribution, producing in many ways. Good athlete for the Europe, has good size and length and plays hard and aggressive. Attacks the basket well showing coordination and creativity in traffic. Rebounds very well due to intensity and positioning. Good defender. Must work on his outside shot.

Recap: Good player for a Beovuk team short in size and options. He played inside but looked like he could also play SF. Athleticism is decent at best but he's coordinated and agile enough to do it. Has basic fundamentals in the low post to balance the lack of explosiveness, size and strength. Good shooter from outside, steps out to shoot the three. Active and smart off the ball. Recap: Rotation player for Partizan's team. Did the dirty job, fighting on defense and crashing the boards. He's long but skinny and didn't show an impressive athleticism. Lacked outside game and wasn't an offensive weapon. Could improve athletically but still would need to add some skills to have a good chance in the next level judging by what we saw in Belgrade. Need to check status for season 2011/12.

Recap: Thick body, tough inside player with solid offensive skills. Lacks athleticism and explosiveness. Slow but nice looking low post moves, using his body very well. Great positioning work, he fights for the position to get the ball in clear positions in the paint. Able to step out to shoot the three pointer. Decent defender and good rebounder. Recap: Undersized but quick and very aggressive. Assertive and confident in the penetration, quite effective finishing despite the lack of size and athleticism. Left a good impression in the NIJT Kaunas 2012 leading a mediocre Belgian team. Scored the long range shot efficiently. Didn´t show particularly good passing and organizational skills, which is a major concern for a guy of his size. Limited potential.

Ranking: Could fit in some low major teams. With good development, may have a chance in his local league.

Recap: A strong, scoring combo guard with a very high talent level. Can get to the hoop, is fast in transition and quick off the dribble. Can get into the lane and is strong enough to finish. Can score from anywhere, from three-pointers, to pull-up jumper to shots off the dribble. A very good rebounding guard and will score some on offensive rebounds. Very good range. Projects as a shooting guard at the next level.

Ranking: High major. Looks from schools like Mizzou, Marquette, Cincy, Syracuse and Santa Clara

Recap: Doesn´t show any strides in his game through the last couple of years after that intriguing u16 Eurobasket 2010 (gold medal). Keeps displaying focus issues and lack of polished technique. He's a nice athlete with great length, starring some good actions in transition and crashing the boards. Could have some value as athletic wing, but needs to work a lot to become a fair contributor on the floor.

Recap: Only played two games in the 2012 NIJT Kaunas but had a great scoring performance. Mostly attacking the rim and playing in transition. He´s fairly quick and has good legs, being potent when going all the way to the basket. Not very skilled but assertive and confident. Didn´t shoot well from long range, has to work on his mechanics. Numbers were better than general impression.

Ranking: NCAA division I. Could find a niche in some low to mid major programs.

NIJT Belgrade'11 stats: 20mpg, 8ppg, 2'5rpg. FG 12/33 – 36% 3P 1/6 – 16% FT 5/7 – 71%

Recap: Already looks like the kind of player that we'll see in the NCAA in a couple of years. His brother, Dennis Ogbe is at Tennessee Tech. He's a long and athletic combo-guard who uses his speed to beat his rivals off the dribble. Likes to drive to the rim and looks for high rhythm and individual actions. Skinny, needs to fill the frame. Outside shot doesn't look good so far. Can bring up the ball and create from 1vs1/2vs2 situations.

Ranking: NCAA Division I potential.

Recap: Strong guard with good frame and energy. Lacks coordination, explosiveness and speed for his position so far. Tries to balance this with intensity, hard work and potency. Decent job at the defensive end taking both guard positions but suffering against quick rivals. Raw offensively, his outside shot doesn't look bad but he's not efficient as a shooter. Recap: Has a decent shot technique and can score from mid/long range. Very active and agile at both ends. Offensively, he was always in motion, offering options to his teammates. Defensively, he puts pressure on his man and attacked pass lanes. Skills with the ball on his hands are average. Not a big talent, but could be a good contributor from the bench in low/mid levels.

U16 Nordic Championship'10 stats: 21mpg, 5'8ppg, 1'6apg, 1'4apg. FG 50% FT 27% 3P 100%

Recap: Good director in static, managing his team and controlling the tempo, even if his passing skills are just decent so far. Good outside catch and shooter, finds the open spot to execute. Nice shot selection and court vision. Lacks athleticism and strength. Good fundamentals and IQ. Could be suitable for a best level team as soon as he step up physically.

Turkey – Athens Christian Academy (GA)

Turkish development league championship'10 stats: 19'2ppg, 7'5apg. 3P 78% FT 85%

Recap: Talha has good length and size to play in the backcourt. Scoring oriented, he's a good shooter from outside and he's able to finish around the rim with layups and floaters. Needs to work on his body in order to add muscle, stamina and explosiveness. Can pass the ball well.

Estimation: Needs further evaluation. Will start playing HS basketball this year.

Recap: He has played three positions when we have scouted him. Mainly a SF (likely his position in the future), also played SG in NIJT Hospitalet (lot of minutes in the spot, but "virtual role" there). Has great length and size for his type of game but lacks strength and explosiveness. Likes to play from outside to inside, especially off the ball, finding good looks around the rim. Must improve his shot and ball handling.

Ranking: NCAA Division I mid to high major. Likely going pro. Debuted with senior NT.

Recap: Role player off the bench to help the team playing mainly off the ball. Solid body, with strength and toughness. Good frame. He was used to set screens and fight in the frontcourt playing both forward positions. Tends to be too far away from the rim which limits him to crash the boards more often and take advantage of his body. Has basic fundamentals offensively but needs to improve.

Ranking: NCAA Division I/JuCo so far. Could improve.

Recap: Good size and length, looks like a decent athlete who can improve in the future. Didn´t show great skills or talent when we evaluated him for the first time (February 2012) but he was pretty efficient and displayed some good fundamentals and feel for the game. With his physique and efficiency (makes his shot, can score from long range when open, grabs some rebounds) he could be a nice addition for some teams.

Recap: He's long and pretty agile. Has good size and length. Not a great athlete but should fit fairly well in College. Runs the floor and looks fluid with the ball in his hands. Good catch and shoot technique from long range, sinks his open looks from behind the line. A bit overconfident at times, needs to stay focused and work hard. Recap: Secondary role in a mediocre team when we scouted him early in 2012, but still a guy to follow. Displayed a few good moves inside (turnaround jumpers, spins….always avoiding hard body-up) and decent touch. Must take care of his conditioning and improve athletically. Still a year and a half at junior level. We´ll keep an eye on him.

Recap: Good size, frame and wingspan. Pretty agile, can put the ball on the floor and drive to the basket with coordination and efficiency finishing the play. He's a face-to-the basket type of forward so far, but should add inside moves as he's expected to grow more. Must work on his shot technique as well. Recap: Undersized but a great competitor. He works very hard at the boards and helps the team a lot. Terrific positioning work, instinct and timing to grab the rebound, balancing physical limitations. Crashes the offensive board really well. Very raw offensively, he's agile but needs to polish his skills and add mid and long range game due to his size. Could become an interesting undersized specialist.

U18 Eurobasket 2012: 16mpg, 6ppg, 5´4rpg. FG 21/38 – 55% FT 12/20 – 60%

Recap: Undersized but strong and heavy, he took advantage of the lack of competition he found in the paint in the NIJT Kaunas 2012. Not particularly talented nor skilled, gets the job done scoring the close and easy looks he gets inside and uses his body well to grab rebounds. Recap: Irregular during the u16 Eurobasket in 2011. Scored playing off the ball (as his teammate Vezenkov got the attention of the defense) and attacking the rim. Struggles shooting the ball. Good work crashing the boards and, especially, finding his teammates and creating for them. 6'3" – SG – 1995 – Class 2013-14

Croatia - KK Split /on loan in Kaptol (Croatia 2nd Division)

U16 Eurobasket'11 stats: 21mpg, 8'1ppg, 1'2apg. FG 17/31 – 54% 3P 8/28 – 28% FT 15/18 – 83%

Recap: Played alongside Hezonja and Marinelli in the U16 Croatian team that won the gold medal in the Eurobasket 2011, doing a solid job as complementary man. Has some talent and offensive skills, finishing well with layups and floater and sinking jumpers. Lacks athleticism and physical tools though. We need to see him again in a most important role.

Ranking: Could have some Division 1 potential. Re-evaluation needed.

Recap: Good length, looks taller than he really is. Skinny. Very agile and fluid. Attacks the rim constantly and runs the floor very well. Good weapon in transition. Must work on his fundamentals and add some long range game. Good defensive hustle, uses length to steal the ball. Has tools to work with. Needs focus and maturity on the floor.

Ranking: Division I potential. Still time to improve. Needs further evaluation.

Recap: Good director for Estonian team. Elegant player with good ball handling and feel for the game. He's still inconsistent shooting the ball but he scored a good bunch of off bounce and off dribble shots which made us think he could become a good shooter/scorer sooner than later, probably working on his follow thru. Showed skills and fundamentals. Average athlete. With the right work, he can step up into a good prospect.

Ranking: NCAA Division I potential. Needs further evaluation.

Recap: Smooth guard with scoring ability and more than decent skills for his age. Has good coordination and length and should play full time SG in the future. Lacks strength and explosiveness which makes him harder to finish around the rim although the touch looks nice. Can score from mid range but needs to add range to his shot. Good drives to both sides with ability and creativity.

Ranking: NCAA Division I potential. Could become a mid to high major prospect.

Recap: One of the two PG's playing together in the Finnish starting lineup in the Baltic Cup. Average athleticism and size, but he's quick, agile and very active. Good outside shooter, scoring from the corner when open. Sank a few nice runners but needs better legs to be consistent off the bounce. Struggled finishing his drives due to lack of touch and strength in traffic. Average director. Active defender. Good rebound job for his size and position.

Ranking: NCAA Division I low major potential at best so far.

Recap: Good body with solid frame and more than decent strength for his age. SF style of game despite the size. Assertive and confident, didn't look very skilled but was intense and powerful on his moves around the basket. Tough defensively and pretty good rebounder, being physical in the glass. With a more polished skill set and some shot range he could become an intriguing prospect.

Ranking: NCAA Division I mid to high major potential.

Recap: Guard size but plays like a forward. He's very long and quite athletic and won't be a surprise if he adds a couple of inches more in the next couple of years. Plays physical, great motor. Skinny, must work-out a lot to improve his strength. Solid defender, quick and agile. Can block shots going to the weak side. Must polish his offensive skills, especially the dribbling. Recap: Athletic combo-guard. Has the ability to get all the way to the rim, where he can finish nicely. Good body control, speed and leaping. He's still skinny but should fill the frame at good pace. Has some length. Versatile scorer as he can score from outside as well. Quick release, able to sink the three in series. Energetic and electric when penetrating. Kicks the ball out well at times. Could be a good scoring PG in the future.

Ranking: Has good potential and should fit well in College Basketball. NCAA Division I mid to high major.

Recap: Outstanding kid. He has played all five positions on the floor at junior level in Europe. . Arguably the toughest and more passionate kid you'll find at this level in Europe. He's strong and has a good motor. However, he is an average athlete at best. His potential is very limited. Smart, crafty, intense. A leader. Big time scorer attacking the rim constantly. Can also sink the mid/long range jumper but needs to work on it.

Ranking: Should find a place in a Division I team but he has clear athletic limitations.

Recap: Scoring oriented PG with good ability to play off the dribble and generates offensively. "American" style of game and "behavior" (on and off the court). Has talent but he's pretty limited physically. Clearly undersized, he's not long or explosive. Good outside shooter but shot selection is not good. Decision making is poor at times, tends to over dribble too much. He has some natural skills but lacks maturity and smartness.

Ranking: Potential looks limited. Could have some value for low major-Division II if improves physically.

Recap: Good complement in a solid Italian backcourt. Decent director and good defender, he's able to score but not as consistently as his backcourt mates. Runs the team properly but needs to improve his passing skills when it comes to deliver the last pass. Good job in press defense. Average athlete, with some room to improve. Moved to Casale Ferrato last summer. Check eligibility.

Recap: Very versatile and complete guard. He does a bit of everything on the floor and has leadership and competitiveness. Could pay both guard positions but he's a better SG than director so far. Could evolve as PG though. Solid skills and scoring abilities. He can shoot the three, drive to the basket, run the floor and pass the ball. Good defensive effort and efficiency. Likes to press and steal the ball with nice timing

Ranking: NCAA Division I high major. Playing Italian 2nd Division. Check eligibility.

Recap: Pure shooter with very quick release. Good rotation and stroke, he's able to deliver off the dribble and off the screen. He wasn't inspired from behind the arch in Iscar but he's clearly a great shooter for his age. Helped in rebounding duties and worked hard on defense, but lacks defensive awareness. Could become into a solid outside shooter from the SG spot.

Ranking:: NCAA Division I mid major if he develops athletically.

Recap: Ivan is showing strides lately but he´s still a SF in a CG (at best) body. The MVP of the 2012 Baltic Cup also played well in the NIJT Kaunas. Has good touch and he´s agile in traffic. Smart and efficient off the ball. Outside shot looks still an issue. Undersized and not a great athlete, must work on his passing and shooting abilities in order to adapt to the SG spot. Could keep growing, though. Made his debut in Latvian 1st division.

Recap: He showed some very interesting sparks of talent in terms of dribbling skills and court vision but he turned the ball over in his first two possessions of the tournament and looked completely overwhelmed. He has talent and potential but had huge toughness (mentally and physically) issues. Very skinny, looks fragile and shy but displayed some great plays with good awareness, nice assists in transition, beating men in 1vs1

Recap: Secondary role into Spanish NT and Joventut Jr. team rotation but enough to show his ability to attack the rim from the dribble. Agile and coordinated in traffic, good touch around the rim. Improving his outside shot. Active in transition, looking for the individual action when the rival defense was set. Decent defender. Not bad athlete, with long arms and good agility and explosiveness. Has a good upside.
(2013 Update) Athletic guard. Outstanding footwork which is fundamental of his style. He is a skinny point forward with long arms and great coordination. He has a flowing shot technique and good ball-handling, especially for the size, but he still loses too many balls. He can score in many ways but his strength is versatility, he has an above the average court vision and nice instincts to find his teammates. He can really play all first 4 positions, in both the half courts. He doesn't seem to always have a good attitude.

Ranking: NCAA Division I mid to high major potential.

Spain – Real Madrid

NIJT Hospitalet 2012 stats: 5´5ppg, 2rpg, 3apg, 2´2spg. FG 4/12 - 33% 3P 3/14 - 21% FT 5/8 -62%

Recap: Skilled, creative PG. Stats don't show how good he is. Great talent, natural ability to handle the ball and create from the PG position. Has outstanding court vision and passing skills. Can beat the defender off the dribble but lacks athleticism to finish the play. Very good in transition. Size and physical tools are going to be a clear limitation when facing the next level. Will likely stay in Europe.

Ranking: NCAA Division I low to mid major with athletic limitations. Most suitable for European basketball.

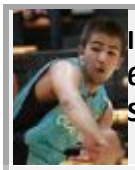
U16 Iscar Tourney'10 stats: 12'5ppg, 1'7rpg, 2'5apg. 4'2spg. FG 16/30 – 53% 3P 1/4 – 25% FT 15/28 – 53%

Recap: Nice PG with solid court vision and leadership. Good ball handling and dribbling skills, able to score in traffic and after contact. Good passing skills, fundamentals and IQ. Great defender with outstanding timing to steal the ball. Big issue: shooting skills. Shot technique needs a lot of work, he struggles from outside and the FT line. Decent athlete with room to improve.

Ranking: NCAA Division I low to mid major, probably better if he improves shot and athleticism.



IGNACIO "NACHO" RODRIGUEZ
6'4"/190 – CG – 1995 – Class 2013
Spain – Palma de Mallorca

Palma de Mallorca 2012-13 stats: 18 ppg, 7 rpg, 3 apg, 3 spg

Recap: He is a natural point guard converted to a shooting guard because of his height and strength. He has a good view of the game and is a good passer with solid ball handling skills. Right now he is a shooter who can pass (feed post), hopefully be a smart facilitator of the offense, and a secondary handler vs. pressure to pass through traps or advance the ball. He is very intelligent and shoots very quick and easy and uses his body to help in penetrations. He is a very good rebounder for a guard, anticipates very well on defense and comes up with a few steals per game. He's a skilled player who may need a year of prep or Juco to refine his skills, play more with the ball and get his body into better condition.

Ranking: Division I low major or Juco. Available for 2013.

Recap: Great complement for a guard unit. Very tough guy with well built body. He plays physical at both ends and he's not shy at all. Intense and active defender, but needs better awareness. Secondary role offensively but still productive, shooting the ball well when open in catch and shoot fashion. A bit out of control at times, needs to be smarter and pace himself on defense.

Argentina – Boca Juniors

Recap: Well built frame composed and strong, toughness and some size. Good feet and good hands. Average athleticism. Lacks vertical leap. Doesn't present speed to run the floor. Physical big. Tough. Very skilled back-to-basket post moves. Hand skilled. Can put the ball on the floor and drive to the basket, slowly but strongly. Always one step too late on defense. Very solid rotation player.

Ranking: Dependent on physical growth. At 6'7-6'8 could be a good NCAA Mid-Major player.

Recap: Average athlete, a little bit overweight. Solid offensive skills, great feel for the game. Gets to the rim, where he finishes with both hands. Decent mid-range jumper, both off the dribble and in "catch-and-shoot" situations. Can step outside and shoot threes, but not too confident with his outside shot. Not a great defender, but can read the game pretty well.

U16 Eurobasket'11 stats: 11mpg, 6ppg, 3rpg. FG 11/17 – 64% 3P ½ - 50% FT 5/6 – 83%

Recap: Limited playing time in u16 Eurobasket 2011 but enough to leave some good sensations. Long and agile, he displayed some promising moves, working the baseline and attacking the rim. Sank a couple of good looking jumpers. We'll keep an eye on him checking for a possible blossom.

Ranking: Needs further evaluation.

Recap: One of the best players in the u16 Eurobasket 2011 (playing at home) and an intriguing prospect. Played PF but should move to SF soon. He's long and quite agile. Has the ability to put the ball on the floor and shoot off the dribble. Seals nice looking fade-away and off bounce jumpers. Looks consistent from behind the arc when set. Runs the floor well. Must add strength. Intense. Crashes the boards nicely.

Ranking: NCAA Division I high major potential. Check eligibility!!!

Recap: Long arms, good size and more than decent agility. He has some tools to work with and although he didn't look great when we scouted him, we added him to our book waiting for new improvements and a step up. Needs to get better with the ball in his hands and add some range but he's a good presence at this level, using his mobility and length.

Ranking: Needs further evaluation. Could become a Division I prospect down the road.

Denmark – Golstrup

Recap: Has some good physical tools so we will keep an eye on him. Length, agility and coordination. Could fill the frame well and grow up a few more inches. Needs to work on his fundamentals and awareness. Can score around the rim at this level due to mobility and length.

Ranking: Needs further evaluation.

Denmark – Horsholm

U18 Nordic Championships 2012: 18mpg, 7´4ppg, 6rpg. FG 33% FT 79%

Recap: Excellent contribution. Doesn't show impressive skills but finds his way to the rim. Relentless effort, feeling for the game, good awareness. Has good length but needs strength. Tough and assertive though. Nice touch around the basket. Fights inside, solid positioning. Creative in traffic. Uses fake shots and displays more then decent footwork. Great instincts. Very productive.

Ranking: Division I mid major potential. Could be even higher. Monitoring.

U16 Baltic Sea Cup'11 stats: 5ppg, 3rpg. FG 4/10 – 40% FT 4/8 – 50%

Recap: Nice length and room to improve his body. Could develop into a nice presence inside as soon as he adds some weight. Has the length and agility. His skill set looks pretty raw and he needs to work on his ability with the ball on his hands. Far from being consistent but has potential.

Ranking: Needs further evaluation. Could have Division I potential.

Finland – Fenerbahçe Ulker (Junior team)

U18 Nordic Championships 2012: 16mpg, 7´8ppg, 5´3rpg. FG 44% 3P 0% FT 71%

Recap: After the second evaluation, impressions are pretty similar. He has good athleticism and some potential, but has a long way to go. We have seen promising strides, though. The lack of outside shot efficiency is an important issue, as he´s not that disruptive with the dribble to compensate. Enrolled Turkish side Fenerbahçe farm system. Eligibility needs to be checked.

Ranking: NCAA Division I potential.

U18 Baltic Cup´12 stats: 7ppg, 8´5rpg. FG 1/5 - 20% 3P 4/9 - 44% FT 0/2 - %

Recap: Played combo-forward when we scouted him due to team´s lack of size, he should be a SF in the future. Has a decent body and some room to improve. Not a great talent but helps at both ends, works well off the ball and can sink the long range shot. Also a decent rebounder. Average/athlete. Needs to work on his scoring skills and overall physique. Could become a valuable role player at some levels.

Ranking: NCAA Division II, some Division I potential at low majors.

Recap: Efficient and smart player, mature for his age. Doesn´t stand out athletically but he´s agile and quick enough. Needs to add strength and toughness. Fundamentally sound, shoots the ball well, plays off the ball and takes good shots. Solid shooter from long range. Can drive to the basket although not very explosively. Crashes boards consistently. Has some tools to work with and his awareness is a valuable asset.

Recap: Reminded (physically) us to a shorter, younger Denis Marconato. Thick body for his age, with solid frame and strength. Average athlete in terms of agility and quickness. Played hard in the paint at both ends and shows sparks of footwork and low post moves but was too irregular. Intense on defense but huge awareness issues, losing his man too easily. Pure inside player so far, could improve during his development. Garbage minutes in U16 Eurobasket 2011.

Recap: Incisive player always looking for the rim. He plays like a SF but has SG body. Decent athlete, with good length, would need a bit more speed to make a bigger difference. Not very explosive but has the ability to attack the basket, being coordinated in transition to protect the ball and score. Should improve shooting skills and game reading. Forces actions at times. Great job in transition. Struggles defensively, especially off the ball.

EBA - Estudiantes 2012-13: 19.7 mpg, 7.4 ppg, 3.0 rpg. 2PT– 47.6% 3PT 43.6%

Recap: Great explosiveness and agility. He must progress in his strength and power. He is fast and has a good vertical jump. Ander is a good shooter from long range. His percentages generally improve during the match. Uses jump shot which is very difficult to defend, he finalizes many times with a floater shot. He waits for the screen and uses it very well, nice reception of the ball to shoot. Very intelligent, he understands the game very well; he reads excellently offense advantages. A decent defender. He isn't especially fine in 1 on 1 defense, must progress his lateral footwork. One of the most talented offensive players in Spain. He has an excellent attitude on the court.

Ranking: Division I mid-to-high major. Available for 2013 class.

NIJT London 2013 stats: 30 mpg. 11.8ppg, 7 rpg, 1.5 apg. FG 13/26– 50% 3P -5/14- 35% FT 6/8– 75%

Recap: Interesting prospect who is moving from inside to outside to be a full time SF. Has good physical tools and he's still developing athletically. Can put the ball on the floor and attack the basket and runs the floor well. Has some rebounding instincts and could crash the boards coming from the perimeter. He's working on his shot, still not reliable but could get it soon. A guy to follow closely.
(2013 Update) Not strong, but athletic, strong rebounder. Fights for every ball and has a special feeling for rebounds. His jump elevates him much higher than the basket. He has knowledge when to enter the paint without the ball. Shooter with stable percentage. Uses hooks, semi –hooks, his left hand is very helpful. Runs the floor, easily well time gets back. Blocker! Should work on his ball handling and 3-pointers.Should be monitored more and is likely to gain serious game level in 1-2 years.

Recap: Played PF in the Baltic Cup but he should move to SF during his development. Has a good body and frame and room to improve physically. Smart and intense, somewhat crafty, he's able to dribble well and likes to play from outside to inside, especially off the ball. Well positioned. Crashed the boards with good timing. Shot technique is a main target on his future development as he really looked like a potentially valuable SF.

Recap: The son of the president of Swedish federation. Fairly promising body, has some athleticism and should improve at good pace. Very inconsistent when we scouted him, showed pure shooter manners but couldn´t find rhythm and shot didn´t fall. Has good footwork when going over the screens to catch and shoot from outside. Some clutch shots during the Nordics 2012. Good rebounding work.

Ranking: Has Division 1 potential. Monitoring.

Sweden – Talje (Sweden 2nd Division)

U16 Eurobasket Div.B 2012: 32mpg, 13ppg, 5´3rpg, 1´7apg. FG 38/90 – 42% 3P 9/34 – 26% FT 6/7 – 85%

Recap: Bothered by injuries in Nordic Cup (may 2012). Good athleticism and overall talent. Smooth, mature. Lot of room to improve. Good scoring skills, has feel for the game and gets to the rim easily. Off dribble shot. Needs to work on his shot. Can play all three perimeter positions at this level. Reported to be moving to Spain but no pro contract in order to keep his eligibility.

Ranking: Division I high major potential. Could become an elite player.

OGULCAN BAYKAN

Recap: Pure shooter. Sharp, elegant, natural ability to get open and deliver. Nice technique, especially considering he's only 14 years-old. Fluid mechanics, good rotation and quick release. Always in catch and shoot situations, he didn't take shot off the dribble or off the screens. Very effective and accurate. Needs to work on dribbling skills and add some mid range game.

Ranking: Potential to become a solid shooter in mid-high major, will be monitored closely.

U16 Eurobasket Div.B 2012: 23mpg, 13´1ppg, 5´6rpg. FG 33/70 – 47% FT 26/35 – 74%

Recap: Solid job in the Nordic Championship 2012. Very long, wide frame, mature body. Produced a lot in the paint with simples moves and easy baskets coming from off the ball work. Can put the ball on the floor from mid range against rival bigs, although dribbling skills need polish. Didn´t show long range game. Needs to bulk up. Could develop into a SF in the future? Good job intimidating and attacking pass lanes.

Recap: Numbers are not impressive but we see nice potential here. He has an excellent basketball body. Length, positional size, potency and agility. Also showed some sparks of talent attacking the basket. Still unpolished, though. Hits the three pointer occasionally. He's a work in progress but physical tools are quite intriguing. Keep watching.

Ranking: NCAA Division I high major potential.

U16 Baltic Cup 2012 stats: 8´3ppg, 4´6rpg. FG 7/14 - 50% 3P 2/8 - 25% FT 3/6 - 50%

Recap: Didn´t put any impressive numbers in the Baltic Cup 2012 but we really liked what we saw. Wiry, skinny SF with intriguing athletic potential and some nice skills. He can attack the basket well and runs in transition very effectively. Has length and looks good attacking the rim. Quite raw skills, needs lot of work on his ball handling and shooting ability. Keep an eye on his physical and technical maturation process!

Ranking: NCAA Division I potential. Needs further evaluation.

U16 Eurobasket 2012: 19mpg, 5´1ppg, 6rpg. FG 15/27 – 55% FT 6/12 – 50%

Recap: One of the most productive players in the cadet tournament of the 2012 Baltic Cup, which doesn´t necessarily mean much given the level of competition. He took advantage of his length and agility to score with some consistency around the rim, made the couple of long range shots he took and moved well on the floor. Didn´t shine or show anything promising but deserve monitoring in the future.

Ranking: Needs further evaluation.

Recap: Has good length and flashes of athletic potential. Still skinny but somewhat fluid and agile. Shows some talent, ability to attack the ball and finish over the rim nicely. A bit raw when handling the ball or dribbling. Playing at center at this level, but likes to face the basket and runs the floor. Should become an "open PF". Can sink the outside shot when set. A guy to follow.

Recap: Solid frame and strength, mature body. Not a great athlete but has physical advantage against less mature kids. Very tough and intense. Plays inside despite his size due to lack of actual bigs in the Norway NT. Doesn´t show SF skills, though. Outstanding numbers in the 2012 Nordic Championship, bullying rivals around in the paint. Talented but potential looks limited.

Ranking: Needs further evaluation. We need to see how he develops position and skills wisely.

Recap: Played against older players and did a great job in Iscar. He has to develop physically and could add some more size. Good agility and length, needs weight and toughness. Has offensive fundamentals and crashes the boards well. Plays hard and he's willing to work. Could step up a lot with athletic development. Getting experience and competitiveness.

Ranking: Clearly D1 potential. We'll wait for further development to evaluate properly.

U16 Eurobasket Div.B ´12: 27mpg, 8´6ppg, 9´4rpg, 1´1bpg. FG 28/59 – 47% FT 13/25 – 52%

Recap: Undersized PF. He plays way larger than he really is. Great wingspan, long arms. Has solid fundamentals in the paint. Works well with his back to the basket and uses his length to rebound and intimidate. If he´s able to grow at least 2-3 more inches (which looks possible), he would become a good prospect. A guy to follow closely during the next 2-3 years.

Ranking: Division I potential. Monitor physical development!

Recap: Very long, expected to grow a few inches more. Plays well off the ball, doing a great job continuing to the basket off the pick and roll. Cuts to the basket and finishes well. Needs to get stronger (very skinny) and be more aggressive. Reminds us to Omer Asik in some moves and gestures. Sank a couple of nice three pointers during the u16 Eurobasket 2011. Still another cadet year to go.

Recap: Great length, lacks athletics and aggressiveness. Slow decision-making. Has some post moves, but isn't keen on posting up. Likes to step outside and shoot threes, good shooter. Needs to work on his defensive prowess, so far bigger players get past him easily. Overall needs to learn a lot, but his length makes him a great prospect.

Recap: Very long, has good wingspan and a good frame he needs to fill. Skinny, needs to bulk up and add strength. A bit shy to play in the paint at this moment. Looks like he could keep growing. Fluid and agile, can run the floor and works well off the ball despite limited awareness. Shows some intriguing moves when stepping out to shoot although touch is very inconsistent. A work in progress.

Ranking: Size is good and can develop well. Just a few flashes of talent. Worth the monitoring.

U16 Eurobasket 2012: 20mpg, 9´4ppg, 7´3rpg, 1´4bpg. FG 29/60 – 48% FT 8/16 – 50%

Recap: Big, strong center. Tough guy with massive presence inside. Has strength and aggressiveness and he plays hard in the paint. Average athleticism, not very quickly or agile. Limited skills but good work and contribution playing defense and being physical around the basket. Lacks low post moves but scores using his body and weight, not being a reference, though.

Ranking: NCAA Division I low major. Could improve if he adds skills or better athleticism.

Recap: Great size and solid wingspan. Wide frame, long arms. Should fill the frame well and develop into a strong big man. Very raw offensively, barely produces besides some easy layups and powerful dunks. Needs to work a lot on his fundamentals (box-out, footwork, touch, etc). A work in progress but good physical tools to work with.

Ranking: Division 1 potential. Needs a lot of work.

Australia - Carlisle School (VA)

Jordan Brand Brooklyn 2013: 12 pts,4 rebounds, 1 steals, 1 assist, 4 t/o's, 3-of-7

Recap: He's long, athletic and has plenty of ability. Maker runs the floor very well and isn't afraid to shoot from the perimeter or go off the dribble. As he refines his game and improves his hands, Maker is going to be a major matchup problem. Very skinny and it's questionable if he will fill out. Gets pushed around inside, but his future may be as a wing on offense while playing inside on defense. Needs to wor on his inside game to tale advantage of his height and length. Tens to gravitate to the elbow for nw. Unlimited potential.

Recap: A player to follow closely. The youngest at the FIBA U17 World Championships. Great size and length, very long hands. Good footwork. Has a great understanding of the game. Nice shooting mechanics. Decent shooter both mid-range and long range. Great defender, who read the situation and aims to steal the ball all the time. Named UCLA as his dream next destination.

Recap: A 6'4 combo guard, Murray can shoot the ball with deep range, distributes the ball at a high rate, and has no problem assuming the role of a secondary ball-handler. Not an elite athlete, he is able to get past people because of his crafty style of play and high basketball IQ. Denmark – Virum

Recap: Younger brother of Rasmus, one of the top prospects in Europe. Great length and size for such a younger kid. Very mobile, fluid and coordinated. Runs the floor nicely. Shows good basic and fundamentals. Good touch around the basket with both hands. Lacks the bulk and toughness to fight in the paint. Rolls well to the basket. His long arms already have an influence in the game. Work in progress, great upside.
(2013 Update) He can play in/out positions. Jacob generates many advantages in Pick and Pop. Nice moves around the rim but he doesn't use his left hand. He takes mid-range stationary shots with high percentage. He is interesting for the future because has mobility and agility, but he must work on his fundamentals (especially dribble and moves in high post).His body is perfect to play Power Forward. Playing in Denmark should remain eligible.

Ranking: Division I high major if development is good. Looks very well at early age.

7'1"/234 – C – 1997 – Class 2015-16
Greece – Peristeri

Jordan Brand Brooklyn 2013: 10 pts, 8 rebounds, 5-of-8

Recap: Papagiannis is intimidating from a physical perspective standing around 7-1, having a solid wingspan and quick feet for a player his size. He has a thin frame which needs to be strengthened while his offensive skill-set needs to be developed too. Right now he's raw offensively and defensively and he must put in hard work in order to be among the best centers in next year's high school season. He has good hands and soft touch around the rim and nice touch to 15 feet. On the defensive end he has shown an ability to challenge shots at the rim. He is good rebounder and attacks the offensive glass with purpose, has good timing and a remarkable understanding of angles. Papagiannis has tremendous potential, possesses a strong feel for the game and is skilled enough to be considered among the best prospects in his class.

Recap: One of the most intriguing prospects in Europe right now. He's very young and played against two-year older rivals in the u16 Eurobasket 2011. He has a good basketball body and terrific tools. Has good length and great agility. Looks like he will develop into a high level athlete. Runs the court, puts the ball on the floor and can pass nicely. All very basic and irregular at this point, but should be able to solidify skills and fundamentals. Fluid footwork. Competitive and not shy at all. Tremendous potential.

Ranking: NCAA Division I high major. Could be a NBA caliber prospect.
